MORRIS'S HOLIDAY CARD—This is the holiday card being mailed by President and Mrs. Delyte W. Morris. It is based on "The Presentation in the Temple," bas-relief sketch of bronze

Lord,
now lettest Thou
Thy servant depart in peace . . .

MR. AND MRS. DELYTE WESLEY MORRIS

church doors of Fredda Brilliant and the photographed by James Strawser.

Yule Story Is Read By Morris

President Delyte W. Morris, surrounded by members of the University Chamber Choir, read the Christmas story as written in Luke II, verses 1-21, during the annual Christmas Convocation held Thursday morning in the Arena.

The program featured the University Symphony, directed by Herbert Levinson; the Women's Ensemble and Male Glee Club, directed by Robert W. Kingsbury and an interpretive reading of the holiday season by Vance Fulkerson.

Prior to the program, President Morris spoke with students and visitors on the west concourse of the arena where coffee, cider and donuts were served.

Opening the program was Anderson's "A Christmas Festival" performed by the symphony, followed by combined coral, instrumental and audience singing of "Joy To The World."

Interpretive readings, "The Pre-Christian Festival of Christmas," compiled by Carroll L. Riley of the Department of Anthropology, and "The Jewish Festival of Chanukah," prepared by Kingsbury from Idelsohn's "Ceremonies of Judaism," were read by Fulkerson.

The coral groups combined to present Kingsbury's arrangement of "Song of Galilee" assisted by Walter Keller at the piano, Vicki Choate, flute, and David Harris, oboe.

The symphony performed Tchaikovsky's "The Nutcracker Suite," followed by "Susanni," sung by the Women's Ensemble and featuring soloist Beverly Todd.

Aspirants Must File Petitions in January For City Elections

As a result of the new city manager system, two of the councilmen elected will serve for two years and the other two for four years. The two candidates receiving the largest number of votes will serve the four-year terms. In 1969, the second pair of councilmen posts will be up for election again, but these elections will begin four-year terms. The purpose of this being to stagger the elections of half the council members. The mayoral term also will be four-years.

To run for either office, the candidate must be a qualified and registered voter in the state, county and city. This means he must have lived in Illinois for at least one year, the county for 90 days and the precinct for 30 days.

A primary election will not be held if eight or fewer persons file for candidacy. To file, the aspirant needs a petition containing at least 25 names of qualified voters in the city.

A councilman's salary is $2,000 a year, and the mayor's is $2,500.

Officials whose terms are expiring are Mayor D. Blaney Miller; and commissioners (councilmen under the new system) William E. Eaton, Frank Kirk, Joseph R. Ragsdale, and Eugene Ramsey.

The general election for Carbondale mayor and four city councilmen will be held April 18, 1967, with the primary to select candidates scheduled for Feb. 28.

The dates for filing petitions for the primaries are Jan. 9 through Jan. 24.

Warm Wave, Rain Approach All Time Regional Records

Temperatures in the Carbondale area Wednesday fell only four degrees short of the Dec. 7 record in the area, according to Carbondale weather station figures.

The record high for the date was 74 degrees in 1916. Figures from the U. S. Weather Bureau in Cairo indicate that temperatures there tied the record high of 71 degrees in 1916.

Carbondale's low temperature Wednesday was a balmy 58 compared to a frosty eight degrees 16 years ago.

The record high and low temperatures for Carbondale on Dec. 8 are 71 in 1918 and three degrees in 1917.

The Carbondale weather station recorded 2.42 inches of rainfall between Sunday and Thursday morning, the record rainfall for December is 7.07 inches in 1932.

A spokesman for the Weather Bureau in Cairo said 1.61 inches of rain has fallen there in the first eight days of December, nearly double that area's normal rainfall for the period.

He said the Mississippi and Ohio Rivers had not yet begun to rise, but that they were expected to begin rising slowly within the next few days.

Gus Bode

Gus said the donuts served by President Morris were pretty good but he is saving his cider until next year.

At Saturday Meeting

Board to Hear Report On Housing Policy

The SIU Board of Trustees is scheduled to hear a final report on housing policy and standards at its meeting Saturday, according to a spokesman in the Office of Student Affairs.

The report, prepared by Ralph W. Ruffner, vice president for student and area services, will contain final recommendations on standards and rules for student housing which were first outlined by Ruffner at the November Board meeting.

Included will be new rules for granting permission to live in unsupervised housing. The Board will be asked to take action on the proposals, the spokesman said.

The agenda for Saturday's meeting, to be held at 2 p.m. in the board room of the President's Office on the Carbondale campus, also lists a report by Ruffner on International Services.

Also on the agenda are a report on inter-campus transportation on the Edwardsville campus, faculty and personnel changes, and report of graduates for June and August.

The board will hold an informal meeting Saturday morning, a luncheon at noon, and its annual Christmas Carol dinner and program Saturday night.

Conditional Auto Stickers Require Reissue for Winter

All students who were issued conditional parking stickers for the fall term only should check with the Office of Undergraduate Off-Campus Housing and Motor Vehicles to determine their eligibility for another quarter.

A spokesman said many students were issued conditional registrations for their cars pending housing approvals.

"Even if the student has had his housing approved for the entire year, and he received a conditional registration for his car, he should stop in the office before the end of the quarter and notify us so we can bring our records up to date," the spokesman said.

USAF Supports Research Project

The School of Technology recently received a $40,000 research grant from the Air Force Office of Scientific Research.

The research project is "X-Ray Studies on Molecular Free or Hindered Rotation in Plastic Crystals."

Error in Instructions Corrected

An error on instructions for giving final grades which appears on an information sheet attached to the final examination schedule has been corrected by officials in the Registrar's Office.

If students fail to take a final exam without authorization, instructors should record an "AB" on the student's record. The "AB" will be averaged an "E" and indicates that a student did not satisfactorily complete the course.

The officials said a grade of "WP" or "WE" can be listed only if the student has made an authorized withdrawal from the course through the Sectioning Center or the office of Student Affairs.

The erroneous statement indicated that the student was to receive a "WP" or "WE" even if he was not authorized to miss a final exam.

THE SIU THINKER DURING FINALS

Wall St. Footpath Demands Attention

Deplorable conditions for the student on foot in Carbondale are exemplified foremost at this time by the lack of safety measures taken by either the city of Carbondale or the University in remedying the hazardous pedestrian situation on Wall Street.

Particularly this week, when steady rains have besieged the campus and created deep mud along the busy thoroughfare, has the necessity for a solution been brought to a head.

Where does the student walk? With no sidewalks or even a gravel path, the only alternative is to utilize the narrow street already overloaded with automobiles.

Several factors, especially now, should be taken into account by both the driver and the pedestrian. The rain has forced students to use the street as a walkway; darkness in Carbondale comes at one of the most congested hours of the day, 4:45 to 5 p.m.; and most students are either concentrating on final exams next week or the forth coming holiday season.

The recent remodeling and widening of Mill Street will provide the city and campus with a partial solution to its drastic traffic problem.

However, is not the life of one student or Carbondale citizen worth much more than all the money and effort devoted to the Mill Street project?

Asphalt paths, winding through most of the SIU campus, cost on the average $10 a ton, not including labor for installation. Gravel costs approximately $36 for a 15-ton truck load.

The nominal cost involved in laying an asphalt or gravel path along the Wall Street right of way may save the life or lives of at least one person.

One student was seriously injured earlier this term. How many more will be hurt or killed before the University or city decide that a problem does exist?

Wearing light-colored clothing after dark makes the pedestrian much more visible to the driver. However, the two-way traffic on Wall Street often results in the blinding of one driver by another's oncoming headlights.

The University in its stand on "in loco parentis" claims the right to assume the role of the parent is absence. If this is true, "daddy" had better come to grips soon with a pressing safety problem.

Bombing Not Worth Cuts

As the Viet Nam war boils into another year, we can't help but question what effect it will have on many important domestic programs.

Without reiterating about struggling peasants on the countryside and the freedom-loving Vietnamese, we wonder if programs, such as Headstart, the war on poverty and urban redevelopment should be sacrificed.

How many millions of dollars are lost daily on the docks and in the warehouses in Saigon? What is the weekly cost for bombing North Viet Nam in terms of pilots lost, munitions, aircraft lost and logistic expenditures?

How many ghetto children would have a better shot at an education through Headstart if 100 sorties over the Hanoi area were canceled and the funds transferred to this program?

At this juncture, bombing north of the 17th parallel has shown no indications that it will in any way shorten the war or is hampering infiltration into the south. It appears to be a needless waste of men, aircraft and money.

If bombing the north is a fruitless adventure, then it should be stopped and the expenditures transferred to necessary programs on this side of the Pacific.

Instead, President Johnson plans to ask Congress for $9 to $10 billion more next year to conduct the war. What welfare, poverty or education projects will have more "fat" trimmed off after the first of the year to carry on or escalate this holy war we are waging?

Letter to the Editor

Cultural Gap at SIU? Humbug

To the editor:

It was only yesterday that I heard a couple of students making what seems like an age-old complaint about SIU. They were speaking about what they believed to be a lack of extra-curricular cultural opportunities to the student.

Well, I for one, am tired of hearing this complaint. A student has many activities which are open to him daily. Among these are the joining of one of the numerous clubs that are available, going to weekly convocations, or listening to guest speakers presented by various departments and organizations.

Even in the event a student fails to take advantage of these opportunities he can still utilize perhaps the greatest source of cultural enrichment: the men and women who attempt to open our minds and fill them with knowledge each day in class.

SIU's faculty consists of many fascinating and entertaining educators whose job it is to broaden our knowledge. I wish to persuade all students to capitalize upon the opportunity to informally visit with your teachers during their office hours.

Each of us has a great deal to learn about different aspects of life and being able to enter into discussion with a person well versed on subjects not as familiar to us can be a tremendously enlightening experience helping to fill any cultural gap that one feels is not sufficiently covered by the other activities offered.

Police Watch Poetic Fur Fly As Literary Society Erupts

There have been fears lately that poetry has become decadent and has lost its vigor and public appeal. Reassuring news has come from the Maryland Poetry Society, however.

Angered at an attempt to oust him, Vincent Godfrey Burns, Maryland poet laureate and president of the society, made the poetic fur fly by announcing that his opponents were "pro-communists."

His supporters, he said, were defenders of the conservative position in literature, fighting to keep the well of poetry pure and free of obscenity, pornography or ultra-modernism. Anti-Burns poets retorted that he was a dictator.

Six policemen were on hand, about the usual number regarded necessary at a Chicago polling place. The meanest blow struck was by Burns's opponents, who said he was a bad poet.

His merits as a poet are still at issue, but not his ability as a politician. He elected his slate of officers. For the post of honorary president, he personally defeated Gov.-elect Spiro T. Agnew, taking a position traditionally given to the governor of the state. The governor didn't even know he was a candidate.

When it takes six policemen to keep order at a poetry society meeting there is little need to fear that the Muse has been banished to the coffee houses and has lost her wallop. A few more meetings like that, featuring simple, easily understood American insults and epithets, and we may go back to reading poetry ourselves.

City Without Paper Notes Varied Effects

Carbondale has been without its daily newspaper for 39 days now.

The Southern Illinoisan, closed down by a strike of printers and pressmen, has not produced a paper since Nov. 1 Union-management negotiations ceased after two meetings.

A similar strike in New York City ran on for 114 days and helped kill one of the nation's most respected newspapers, the literate Herald-Tribune.

That is not likely to happen in Carbondale, where the Lindsay-Schaub chain's Southern Illinoisan enjoys a monopoly. But area residents, whether directly involved in the strike or not, have found their lives subtly altered by the paper's absence.

It is harder to get the news. It is harder to advertise goods for sale. It is harder to shop the sales without newspaper advertising to use for price comparisons.

People are using the telephone more: funeral homes, movie theaters, grocery stores all report increased telephone inquiries for information normally gleaned from the newspaper.

Reno's News Agency, which distributes out-of-town papers to Carbondale subscribers and newsstands, reports a greatly increased demand for other papers since the strike began.

But the agency is unable, Mrs. Lee Reno said, to accept temporary subscriptions. "None of these papers will send us extra copies if they are to be for temporary subscriptions," she said, and suggested news-seekers purchase out-of-town papers on the newsstands.

Without their usual daily paper, many town and University people find a gap has appeared in their lives.

"It has had a serious effect on the area population," said C. William Norman, city manager. "It makes it more difficult to keep people informed."

Some have come to depend more upon radio and television for national and world news, and upon the Daily Egyptian and the Murphysboro shopper for local news and shopping information.

"I get all my local news from the radio," said Mrs. Russell Massie, 412 E. Sycamore St., "but I watch the national news on TV."

University people are depending more upon the Egyptian for news, and also use television and radio.

The strike is preventing eight puppies, now stumbling over each other in the basement of the Philip Bakers' home, from finding permanent residence.

Baker said their dog's first litter was sold through Southern Illinoisan classified advertising, but that is not possible now.

Mrs. Baker said "the strike means not knowing about grocery specials or music activities." Other readers miss Christmas sales.

Norman said the workings of municipal government have been hindered by the strike.

State law requires legal notices to be printed in mass media, but with the Illinoisan out of the picture, there is no outlet for them. A few of these, relating to University business, are printed in the Daily Egyptian.

Advertisers might be expected to be hit hard by the absence of a daily paper in which to hawk their wares.

In some cases, they haven't.

"The strike hasn't affected our business at all," said Larry Moore, manager of University Rexall Drugs. "We have doubled our business this year."

Sales are also up at Zwick's Shoe Store, and have remained about the same at the Alice Fly Shop and Cannon's Jewelry Store.

Grocery stores, for the most part, say they have not suffered noticeably from the effects of the strike.

But the absence of advertising media have caused a large number of telephone inquiries about specials and sales.

Richard Kelley, manager of Kelley's Food Store, says the strike has cut down the sale of volume merchandise.

"We can't push certain items in volume as we did before, with the paper," he said.

Other businesses, however, have been affected. Real estate firms, which rely heavily on classified advertising, seem to head the list.

Joseph R. Ragsdale Jr. of Area Realty said his business has definitely dropped off. He has tried to replace classified advertising by circulating handbills.

Cherry Realty and Levelsmyer Real Estate also report drops in business volume and in the number of phone inquiries.

Bening's Real Estate reported no decrease in business, but the firm has replaced classified ads with radio spots on WCIL.

Funeral homes, which often run death notices in local papers, have also been affected. Some obituaries of University-connected persons are now run in the Daily Egyptian and at least one mortuary, the Van Natta Funeral Home, runs death notices on WCIL and the Harrisburg radio station.

The lack of advertising outlets is the greatest problem for business people.

"We would have a 'grand opening' upstairs about two weeks before Christmas," said Robert Paulmeir, comanager of the new Leo's liquor store and bar, "but there's no use in give-aways if so many people don't know about them. Now we're going to wait until spring."

Auto dealers, in some cases, say that business is down but they cannot say how much of the drop is attributable to the strike. One of them Edwin Vogler Jr., owner of Vogler Motor Co., said he has doubled his radio advertising time and increased salesman commissions in an effort to create incentives.

A theory that the spotlight of publicity is a deterrent to crime may be questioned in Carbondale during the Southern Illinoisan strike. The crime rate has decreased during November, according to Police Chief Jack Hazel.

The absence of a newspaper has prevented the police from issuing the usual traffic condition reports, but Hazel said the accident rate is not higher than last year at the same time. "This is due mainly to our better-than-average weather during the last month," he said.

The striking pressmen, members of the Murphysboro Printing and Pressmen and Assistants Union, Local 418, are demanding pay increases which they say are needed to bring wages into line with living costs and with wages scales of other area workers.

The also want better holiday pay and a one-year contract, as against the three-year contract proposed by the company, according to strike captain Charles Pike of Herrin.

Printers, members of the International Typographer's Union, Local 217, are making similar demands, according to John Halstead, chairman of the wage-scale negotiating committee.

Studies have shown that when the only paper in town is closed down, many readers make no effort to seek another paper. They depend on radio and television news.

It would then be reasonable to expect local broadcasters, in the public interest, to increase their news coverage and presentation.

The Carbondale station, WCIL, has not done so. Paul F. McRoy, the owner and manager, said he saw no need to augment news coverage since the station offers an ABC newscast at least once an hour, and local news throughout the hour.

The metropolitan papers distributed by Reno's "are sending additional copies for the newsstands," according to Mrs. Reno, but still decline to offer temporary subscriptions.

At the Southern Illinoisan, nonstriking workers have so far been kept on the payroll.

Reporters are busy researching and writing background and feature stories that are not possible under the press of day-to-day deadlines.

They also attend workshops and discussions on how they may improve their future coverage of the news.

The same is true of advertising and circulation workers: they are studying the operation with a view toward increasing sales and efficiency.

Few are willing to speculate on how long the strike may continue.

The last similar strike at the Southern Illinoisan, in 1961, lasted 43 days. Sixteen printers won a 15-cent-an-hour wage increase (to $2.65), and additional fringe benefits.

When that strike ended, the paper made an effort to bring readers up to date on the news, and a similar effort is likely this time.

Milton Edelman, SIU professor of economics and a specialist in labor relations, said he suspects management is in a good position to hold out because several other papers in the chain are sufficiently profitable to carry the strikebound Southern Illinoisan.

But the strikers, receiving strike pay from a union fund, are likely not hard-pressed by financial circumstances either.

How long the community must go without its daily paper remains impossible to guess.

Stage Set for Political Comedy

By Arthur Hoppe
(San Francisco Chronicle)

Good morning, housewives, small children and other watchers of daytime television. It's time for another re-run of that rollicking, impossible situation comedy, "I Love Lurleen."

As we join them today, Lurleen is seated in the Governor's chair of a large Southern State, holding her very first press conference. Her husband, George, is standing by her side. This makes him look loyal, dedicated and a half a head taller than she is.

Lurleen: I just want to say...

George: What my wife wants to say, gentlemen, is how proud she is to succeed me as Governor and how hard she'll try to emulate my great record.

Lurleen: Yes, I know...

George: What she knows, friends, is that she is merely a poor, frail woman and none too bright in the head when it comes to governing this great State.

Lurleen: But...

George: But she is confident she'll do a magnificent job because she has faith in the divine guidance of the Good Lord. The Good Lord and me.

Lurleen: As you know...

George: Yep, as you know, she's promised to appoint me as her humble $1-a-year consultant. So when she has to make one of them monumental decisions of government, she'll pray for divine guidance. And then she can check it out with me.

Lurleen: Of course, you have to realize...

George: What she realizes, of course, is that while she's technically Governor, the good voters were really voting for me. I mean what voter in his right mind is going to vote for some poor, frail woman who don't know a thing about running a big State like this?

Lurleen: But...

George: But don't worry, I will faithfully discharge the duties of her office. Unless, of course, them beatniks and Commies up North don't do what I say and I got to run for President in 19 and 68.

Lurleen: But what I want to add...

George: But what she wants to add is that a smart, handsome, go-getting fellow like me can run the United States with one hand tied behind his back and still have plenty of time left over to take care of this great State here.

Lurleen: All I want to say...

George: ...is that she'll do her best to do what I tell her to do. And you got to admit, gentlemen, that she's done a bang-up job handling this here press conference. I reckon that's all she was trying to say. Right, honey?

Lurleen (sweetly): Wrong, George. What I've been trying to say is that I'm suing you for divorce.

George (aghast): Divorce?

Lurleen: But if you don't put up a custody fight, I'll give you reasonable visiting privileges.

George: Well, it will be nice to see our children once in a while.

Lurleen: Oh, them, too. But I was referring to my State. Guards! Throw this gabby bum out!

Well, tune in to the next episode of this impossible situation. And meanwhile never forget the old adage: "Hell hath no fury like a woman who doesn't get to talk."

THE CHRISTMAS STORY—The annual Christmas Convocation held Thursday in the Arena featured President Delyte W. Morris reading the Christmas Story (Luke II, verses 1-21). Standing behind Morris are members of the University Chamber Choir. Prior to the program, students were the guests of President Morris at a coffee and donut hour in the Arena.

Senate Okays Peace Address

The Campus Senate passed a bill Wednesday night recommending the creation of an annual Adlai E. Stevenson Memorial Peace Address.

The event would be a function where a distinguished national or international figure would be brought in to deliver the address.

The Senate also heard a report on the state of affairs of the University Center by Clarence G. Dougherty, director of the center.

Dougherty outlined the financial operations of the University Center, and also described the expansion program that is scheduled to begin in the near future.

He said the expansion includes the addition of a new wing, a rathskeller, greater facilities in the cafeteria and snack bar, enlargement of the ballroom and book store.

The Senate also approved travel allocations for campus organizations and passed a resolution commending the Celebrity Series recently initiated by the Activities Programming Board.

Admissions' Correspondence Sent to 5,000 Each Month

By Linda Whyte

The Admissions Office at SIU is continually processing applications for entering students, but the busiest season will begin in January and continue through March, according to Leslie J. Chamberlin, director of admissions.

He estimates that 5,000 pieces of mail are sent out from the Admissions Office each month, and 40,000 applications for admission are sent out each year. Fewer than half of the people receiving these applications complete the necessary records to be considered for admission, Chamberlin said.

Chamberlin, formerly a principal in the St. Louis Public School System, said the Admissions Office has about 30 employees, 20 of these student workers. The office also has two assistant directors, one in charge of foreign student admissions, and another in charge of relating new information or changes of SIU to high schools and junior colleges and encouraging students to attend SIU, Chamberlin said.

He also said the Admissions Office has a precollege counselor who is available to talk to visiting high school students. Other workers have duties such as processing applications and sending out requested information; there were 1,800 requests for information about SIU in November alone, Chamberlin said.

Having been director of admissions for four years, Chamberlin stressed that the Admissions Office is more than just a paper-processing office.

"It really is a door to the University," he said. Besides doing paper work, said Chamberlin, the office has a voluntary staff of over 90 who visit high schools and junior colleges to talk to students about the University.

Layer will speak on "Structure of the University Government: Theory and Practices."

Paintings Exhibited

Carolyn Gassan Plochmann, Carbondale, Route 1, is displaying 20 of her recent paintings and drawings at the Paducah, Ky., Art Guild, during December. This is her second one-man show this season, the first having been at the St. Louis Gallery.

Blue Cross Registration Date Dec. 20

Dec. 20 is the deadline for signing up for Blue Cross-Blue Shield coverage for winter quarter.

The optional quarter-by-quarter coverage program, begun at SIU this fall, would cover doctor and hospital expenses until the last day of spring break. Students may apply during winter quarter for spring quarter coverage.

Letters have been sent to students' parents announcing the deadline, according to a Health Service administration spokesman.

Students may sign up at the booth outside the sectioning center in the University Center. The $5.60 fee must be paid at the Bursar's Office before Dec. 20.

The program does not cover emergency room work. A student must be admitted to the hospital. It also does not cover maternity charges.

POPE PAUL VI

POW Proposal Nixed by Reds

GENEVA (AP) — Communist North Viet Nam has again rejected an American proposal for discussions about the issue of prisoners of war, the International Red Cross Committee said Thursday.

The all-Swiss organization, which had forwarded the proposal, said the Hanoi authorities also demanded the immediate return of 19 fishermen they said United States forces kidnapped off the coast of North Viet Nam.

Hanoi refuses to recognize the Geneva Conventions for the protection of prisoners, North Vietnamese authorities threatened for a time last summer to treat American airmen captured in North Viet Nam as war criminals. There has been no public repetition of that threat recently.

Pope Appeals for Lasting Armistice

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI appealed Thursday for the Viet Nam Christmas truce to be extended into a lasting armistice for the negotiation of an honorable peace. In one of his most optimistic statements on the war, he said the prospect for an end of fighting is brighter.

His appeal brought no immediate response from either side in the conflict. Hanoi has never replied to any of the papal pleas. In Saigon, South Vietnamese Premier Nguyen Cao Ky said recently any truce should be a matter of hours, not days. U.S. officials contend the Communists take advantage of prolonged truce to regroup and resupply.

U.N. Secretary-General U Thant expressed hope that both sides would heed the papal appeal and the Texas White House promised it would receive sympathetic consideration from the United States.

Pope Paul made his new appeal in an address in St.

Peter's during the celebration of the Feast of the Immaculate Conception and the first anniversary of the end of the Vatican Ecumenical Council.

"The idea of an end to hostilities is becoming stronger and more confident," he said.

He suggested that the proposed Christmas truce and a proposed second truce in February at the time of Buddhist new year be linked into a continuing armistice that would allow peace negotiations.

The Pope asked: "If, as it has been announced, a further cessation of hostilities is to follow shortly on the Christmas truce, why do not both parties join the two separate truces into a single, continuous period of time, so that new ways may be explored for bringing about an honorable understanding to end the conflict?"

—Secretary — General U Thant expressed hope that "the parties directly involved" would head the appeal of Pope Paul VI for an extension of the holiday truce in Viet Nam.

"The secretary — general very much appreciates the motivation behind the appeal of His Holiness," Thant said in a statement released by a spokesman.

Weapons Agreement for Outer Space Reached

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—The agreement announced Thursday by President Johnson regulating use of weapons in outer space represents a major breakthrough in the 1-year battle to draft a legal code to govern space exploration.

Up to now, the increasing thrusts by man into this new frontier have been regulated only by so-called "soft law" made up of accepted practice, U.N. resolutions, and nonbinding understandings.

During recent weeks, efforts to complete the draft treaty had developed into a race against time as the United States and the Soviet Union moved closer to an attempt to send a manned space vehicle to the moon.

The treaty deals specifically with regulations for moon explorations, as well as general rules for flights in outer space and to other celestial bodies. It is expected to get quick approval by the U.N. General Assembly which will commend it to all member nations for ratification. Once it comes into force, it will be binding upon all signatories.

While many provisions in the draft already are accepted as established understandings, the proposed treaty will represent the first binding law for outer space since the space age began with the launching of the original Soviet Sputnik on Oct. 4, 1957.

It still leaves unanswered many major questions, including the controversy over the use of space for spying. For example: Should space vehicles be permitted to gather military intelligence data? What is meant by military use of outer space? Should private corporations be permitted to explore outer space?

But the agreement goes a long way toward closing the gap between space law and the scientific and technical advances in space. It not only proclaims that the moon and other celestial bodies should be used exclusively for peaceful purposes, but it guarantees complete freedom of exploration for all.

230 Lost In Sinking

ATHENS, Greece (AP)—Officials counted 230 persons missing and presumed drowned Thursday after a towering wave smashed steel plates on the Greek interisland passenger ship Heraklion and sank her in raging seas.

Of the 281 persons aboard, rescue ships reported they had picked up 49 survivors and two bodies by nightfall, more than 16 hours after the vessel went down in the storm sweeping the Aegean Sea.

The rescue ships said the holds and passenger cabins filled after the great wave, churned by 70-mile winds, struck the Heraklion. It was two hours after midnight when the Heraklion sent a last desperate message: "We are sinking. Help us."

Gilbert Files License Bill

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—A bill requiring motorcycle drivers to take a test before they could obtain an operator's license was filed Thursday by Sen. John Gilbert, R-Carbondale.

The bill would prohibit licensing of anyone under 18 but a six-month's learner's permit could be issued to drivers between 17 and 18.

The learner's permit would restrict a motorcyclist to operating a vehicle in daylight hours under the supervision of a licensed operator.

Applicants for motorcycle licenses would be examined by the secretary of state's office, under the bill submitted for consideration at the legislative session opening Jan. 4.

Spurrier, Webster Top AP College Football All Americans

NEW YORK (AP)—Quarterback Steve Spurrier, who triggers rallies with surprising suddenness, and defensive back George Webster, who stops them with startling swiftness, are featured on The Associated Press All-American college football team announced Thursday.

Florida's Spurrier earned promotion from last year's second team while Webster, of Michigan State, is one of three repeaters on the team. The others are defensive tackles Lloyd Phillips of Arkansas and George Patton of Georgia.

Joining Spurrier in the backfield are Mel Farr of UCLA, Nick Eddy of Notre Dame and Clint Jones of Michigan State.

They are planted behind a line consisting of ends Jack Clancy of Michigan and Ray Perkins of Alabama, tackles Ced Dowdy of Alabama and Gary Bugenhagen of Syracuse, guards Tom Regner of Notre Dame and LaVerne Allers and center Jim Breland of Georgia Tech.

The defensive line has Bubba Smith of Michigan State and Washington's Tom Greenlee at the ends, Phillips and Patton the tackles and Wayne Meylan of Nebraska at middle guard.

The linebackers are Paul Naumoff of Tennessee, Jim Lynch of Notre Dame and Duke's Bob Matheson while the backs are Webster, Tom Beier of Miami, Fla., and Frank Loria of Virginia Tech.

Iowa Hawkeyes Defeated in Six Events

Meade's Gymnasts Grab 51st Dual Meet Victory

Coach Bill Meade started the SIU 1967 gymnastics season with his 51st dual meet victory. The Saluki gymnasts defeated Iowa Wednesday night by the score of 188.3-184.6.

The Salukis grabbed first place in every event except one. The only event in which the Salukis failed to win against the Hawkeyes was the side horse.

"The team did a real good job. We had to come from behind twice in the meet. This meet showed me who can do the best work under pressure," said Meade.

breather from the pressure of extending their dual meet string. The Salukis won't have a dual meet until Jan. 14.

Meade will send the remainder of the team to the Iowa Invitational Saturday. This group will be made up of mostly sophomores who don't normally get much experience. Iowa State, Iowa, University of Illinois, Minnesota, Mankato State and Western Illinois University will complete the field at Iowa City.

Over the Christmas break Meade will take his charges to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., for the United States Gymnastics Federation Meet

St. Louis Freshmen Defeat Saluki Frosh 78-65 in Opener

Southern's freshman basketball team dropped the season opener to St. Louis University Wednesday night, 78-65.

The Billiken frosh took a 33-31 lead into the second half and gradually pulled away from the Salukis. The Bills' Joe Wiley of Belleville dominated the statistics, scoring 21 points and pulling down 24 rebounds. The 6-3 Wiley converted on nine of 23 field goal attempts.

St. Louis' scoring was well balanced with Ed Tabash contributing 19 and Tim Hyland getting 17 points.

The big man for the Salukis was 6-7 Bruce Butcko, who scored 20 points and contributed 10 rebounds. However, Butcko could make good on only eight of 24 attempts from the field. Juarez Rosborough scored 12 points, Mike Dixon had eight, Rex Barker seven, Gary Johnson six and Orville Chumbley had four.

Rosborough also contributed seven rebounds from his forward position.

The Billikens outshot Southern from the field, 37.6 to 35.3. They outrebounded the Salukis 56-50. The St. Louis victory avenged two defeats at the hands of the Saluki frosh last season, 100-79 and 68-67.

The Saluki freshmen will see action again Saturday night prior to the varsity game at Louisville, when they play the Cardinal frosh. Their first home game is Dec. 17 against Belleville Jr. College. They meet the St. Louis frosh again in the season finale at home Mar. 1.

Paul Mayer took first in the long horse and the floor exercise to lead the Salukis individually. Other firsts were taken by Dale Hardt, trampolines; Rick Tucker, high bar; Ron Harstad, parallel bar; and Fred Dennis, ring event.

The Salukis will get a

However, SIU will compete in two invitationals this weekend. Tonight Meade will take seven gymnasts to Boulder, Colo., to compete in the Colorado Invitational. Only three other teams besides SIU will compete in this invitational—the Air Force Academy, University of Colorado and Colorado State University.
